BSR RELEASE - FEBRUARY 20, 1954. 2-A-54

-- ATTENTION OF BSR ASSOCIATES AND RELEASED IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST.

While the present Release may easily prove to be the most important ever issued by our BSR Headquarters, this fact may not be readily apparent, since it consists (1) of INFERENCES and "hunches" on the part of our Regional Director E.S.S., and (2) the confirmation of these inferences by one of the Mark Probert Controls - (Professor Alfred Luntz) - a source not necessarily acceptable to all of our readers. But my own confidence in both these sources is very strong and based on many years of close contact with them. When this same material appears in the press, under official sanction (as I believe it will) it will be regarded as the most sensational news in recorded history.

Regional Director E.S.S. is a physicist and technician who has given years of study to the phenomena of the Aeroforms ("saucers", discs, etc.) and who also has an excellent grounding in the history of metaphysics and esotericism generally. On February 16, 1954, he wrote to the BSR Headquarters, at San Diego, California, and also to "The Saucerian" (magazine) to the following effect:

'It is my considered opinion, based on all the evidence so far available to me - coupled with my strong personal "hunch" - that the U.S. Government, and probably Russia and others of the great Powers also, has received an ultimatum or warning from the "Saucerians" or "Guardians", to the effect that if any of these nations dared to start any kind of atom war, they (the Guardians) would intervene, either directly or indirectly --

'This warning may well include the atom-bomb tests. The brunt or sterner part may well be directed against the U.S. in view of our leadership and greater activity in nuclear research, and because of talk in some quarters of a 'preventive' war. The Guardians will have made it plain that their intervention will not be a matter of taking sides. They will also have made some practical demonstration of their power to enforce their edict.

'It is my opinion that such an ultimatum, if not yet actually delivered, soon will be - and that the matter is of deadly seriousness. My personal desire is only to serve public interest by this limited advance warning.'

On February 18 the Mark Probert Control, Professor Alfred Luntz, stated as a fact that definite warnings of the type mentioned above, had indeed been received by the major Powers, and backed up by a demonstration of power. He went on to say that THERE WOULD BE NO WORLD WAR WITH NUCLEAR WEAPONS; that there would be minor wars, a recurrent build-up and solution of crises, and a gradual readjustment in world relations. He warned against the persistence of very powerful forces (well known to many of us) who are intent on world domination, but that "the people upstairs" (Etherians, 'Space-People') could not on their own behalf tolerate social chaos and destruction. "If you lived upstairs and there were madmen down below, what would you do?" He added that these opinions were shared by other members of the "Inner Circle" of communicators.

A PAGE FOR EXPLANATIONS - - AND COMMENTS

This is respectfully - and optimistically - addressed to scientists and scientific workers who from time to time write to us concerning our activities, especially with regard to our studies of the Aeroforms ("flying discs", etc.)

The Associates of the Borderland Sciences (not Borderline, please) number about 900-1000, in addition to a larger number of contact readers interested in such subject matter. There is a small but active nucleus of members who are competent physicists, chemists, and other professional workers, both with and without academic degrees and positions. Many of them also have excellent backgrounds in metaphysics - using that word in its correct and technical sense. This latter qualification seems to us essential, since only an eclectic approach can make much progress with certain present and urgent problems.

The general field of our studies is explained in more detail by loose-leaf material available on request. You may be assured, however, that we neither serve special interests nor make financial profit out of our publications.

We recognize the strong (and partly justifiable) distaste of most scientific workers for anything that seems to be touched by 'occult', or 'mystical' or purely speculative considerations. Most of our Associates share this attitude, up to a certain point. But it should be obvious that while "science" and "metaphysics" (e.g.) can be arbitrarily defined and separated, such separation does not correspond to anything existing in Nature and in facts. It is wholly a dichotomy, convenient and justifiable, but also one which can stifle advanced research in many fields.

You will perhaps agree, as we do, that Dr. J. W. N. Sullivan's statement is basically correct: "Truth to science is always a matter of convenience". It is a system of ideas which enable us to think the world, intelligently and profitably. It is also said: "In science there are no finalities, there should therefore be no dogmatisms". You will perhaps agree too, that "proof is evidence sufficient to convince beyond reasonable doubt" - though the words evidence, sufficient, convince, and reasonable are all left undefined. In view of these principles, we cannot well refuse to consider relevant data from ANY source, and to consider it without prejudice pro or contra on account of its origins. Data originating in the 'fields' of psychic research, parapsychology, spiritism, occultism, metaphysics and other 'outlaw' areas must NOT be ruled out a priori by any genuine scientist - however narrowly he may restrict his own personal researches.

The cliche' that 'science can explain anything, given time enough' is nearly true in theory, but only if the concept of 'science' be sufficiently extended. T h e science of the future must include, or definitely cease to exclude such subject matter as (e.g.) the existence of etheric objects, substance and forces; the almost numberless phenomena of radiesthesia; the essential nature of Time, Space, and Causation; the nature of matter, especially in subatomic forms; the existence and superior density of the ether(s); the data of telepathy, clairvoyance, telekinesis, materialization, apportation, and related phenomena; the demonstrable fact (under the definition of proof quoted above) of the survival of the human personality after death, and of communication with it in many different ways; the energic character of thought and consciousness and the material effects produced by it . . . .

There is, of course, no such thing as an entity called science; there are only individuals who study subjects in what they believe to be a scientific way. That they should define their own pursuits for themselves, in their own way, is legitimate; but the attempt to restrict the quest of the human mind for knowledge, to narrowly confine the experimental method and the subject matter to which it should be applied - is sheer stupidity. That "the occult of today is the science of to - morrow" is a well-worn truism - but there are too many scientists to whom it is meaningless. We applaud the most rigid scientific procedures, the most strict logic and meticulous observation, but deplore finalities and dogmatisms. In how many departments of research can the textbooks of even a decade past be regarded as correct and adequate, on important matters?

Coming now as a matter of contemporary interest to the problems of the Aeroforms, we hear such expressions as: 'Your account is too speculative -- too fantastic -- I feel sure that some more material explanation will be forthcoming -- as I am a scientist I am critical minded and objective -- I cannot deal with alleged explanations that read like science-fiction -- you propose one set of unknowns to explain another ... ' A cautious and conservative approach to any problem is scientifically commendable. On the other hand, to remain long fixed in the attitudes quoted is to do nothing and learn nothing. And when was ever a question asked or answered, that it did not raise up others? We have, let us say, a given phenomenon of importance but which seems incredible. We can begin by denying it -- it has no business in our orderly text-book world. But it continues to thrust itself on our notice, so we go through all our list of normal and acceptable possibilities, filled with grim determination to rout the intruder - but all in vain. None of our conjectures, theories, hypotheses will work. Some of them, of course, work sometimes, here and there, but none of them will 'save' the phenomena as a whole. Our confidence in the basics of science is determined - but pathetic. Some one comes and says, in effect: 'These happenings were known of old time, and their explanation is thus and so'. Are we in a position to close our eyes and ears, or to deride what is offered us?

Are we so bogged and smothered by scientific training that we can accept nothing, even as a hypothesis, unless it can be related to this or that text book, or is approved by Professor X or Y? (Professor C. D. Broad, among many others, has freed his mind on this type of pseudo-scientific mentality.)

Before we insist on a'material explanation', we should try our hand at a definition of matter. "An atom", says Bertrand Russell, is "a wave of probability with nothing to wave in". Do we think that space is nothingness and yet serves to connect objects and to transmit energy? Do we have the childlike notion that our material world is dense, and that the others are rarefied and for that reason non - touchable (when almost the exact opposite is true)? How many or which one of the 'basic realities' of scientific thinking - light, heat, motion, gravity, electricity, magnetism, consciousness, pressure - is visible, tangible, definable, known in itself? And which of these can exist, for us, except as modifications of consciousness? Is it not ridiculous to talk about the separation of science - (particularly for speculative science) from metaphysics? What is metaphysics? It comprises ontology and epistemology - or the nature of substance and the nature of the act of knowing! My impression is, that science is concerned with knowing about substance. Of course, all this is'old stuff'. Very old stuff - from Patanjali to Berkeley and Kant, let us say. There are, one could guess, a half-dozen millions of eager, intelligent, very capable young workers in the sciences who have never heard of even these three great names. They are a brilliant generation - but they are metaphysical illiterates, though by no fault of their own. No one would accuse the truly great ones of contemporary science of such illiteracy - but the cheapness of it, its shoddiness and basic stupidity has filtered down through every level of society. One result - the Western mind has become untoachable, must learn the hard way now, that 'solid ground' is really thin ice and the thaw well advanced.

To return again to our 'saucers', 'discs', Aeroforms generally, it is unfortunate (perhaps) that, the true account of them being at hand, it cannot be summed up in two-three simple sentences (not compound or complex ones, for fear of fatigue), but may require some few hours of reading, even a bit of thinking here and there, about old ideas, ten thousand years or so, now become new all at once, knocking at all our doors like insistent revenants. But this of course should not and will not deter the true scientist. The real deterrent is the inescapable fact, more and more obvious, that the future of our civilization belongs to the eclectic type of thinking- we mean to the scientist-occultist-metaphysician, with wide knowledge and tolerance in all three methods of approach. Yet this is precisely the type of thinker which our culture has so far been unable to produce save in rare and disregarded instances.

THE SAUCERS SPEAK

This long awaited book, by Dr. George H. Williamson and Alfred C. Bailey, is now off the press and ready for distribution. Its 127 pages constitute one of the most amazing documents ever printed, and probably the most important one yet published in America in the matter of the Aeroforms. It has this importance because of its astonishing data, and because its pages are saturated with sincerity. They speak with the note of authenticity and utter conviction. And except for the lapse of a few pages into radio 'slanguage' the story is told with directness and simplicity.

As to the contents in more detail, the chapter headings include, after a publisher's note (Franklin Thomas) and a three-page Prologueby the authors: "Other Voices", -about ten pages of earlier purported communications from Mars or other planets, ending with Byron Goodman's experience with radio 'ham' Mike in 1950; "William - son - His Story" (chap. 3); "Bailey - His Story"; the "Parlor Diary" (telepathic and ouija-board communications); "The Radio Diary", messages received in Morse code; "The Man In The Moon" (with chart showing distribution of moon lights); "Saucers Still Speaking"; and an Epilogue and Appendix, mostly of devastating comment on the cult of Menzel's and other Impossibles. The 60-odd pages of the two "diary" chapters are perhaps the most impressive - yet there is very little in the book which is not impressive, if considered in its context and implications.

And what are the 'implications' of these voices out of the Void, which are both factual and incredible? Any answer, of course, takes the form of personal reactions. To me they are, first of all, voices of friends - unseen but very real, greatly concerned about us, and about themselves too (account of our deadly playthings), very urgent and apprehensive. "Haste - more haste -- be careful -- soon,soon,soon -- watch all Nature for signs of catastrophe - Earth's last mile, we sad -- the year of decision will come soon" - so on, over and over. Now, these are utterances of good will as well as of foreboding, and they speak also of immense activity throughout the solar system, and even in the stellar universes beyond, directed (much of it) toward the preservation of Saras (earth) and her people. But it is also clear, from the tone of the whole, that they are not the utterances of Beings who have control of the situation (whatever it may be). They do not speak in the role of masters of destiny - either ours or their own. And again and again they repeat, that if our race is to survive we must learn to live together in peace and good will, and must renounce the warlike use of nuclear weapons. Now, if the preservation of our race and planet is 'up to us' - up to mankind - depends on some mental, moral and spiritual reform and regeneration of the same humanity which has produced these conditions - the optimist can find small encouragement. We shall try, of course - some of us anyhow - but if all those of good will are outnumbered, as by the sands of the sea. . . . .

The trance Control Professor Alfred Luntz remarked not many days past: - - "There is now no source of real authority on earth - only the crowding and struggle of authorities - no one in whom wisdom and good will and power are combined for the welfare of man. Therefore the authority necessary for your preservation must come from other sources, other planes and worlds - must come from the Guardians themselves...." What becomes of even this hope, if the Guardians cannot or will not exert force - or intimidation by threat of force?

Here perhaps we can see one helpful thing to be done. We can open our minds and hearts to the Guardians and make them welcome, without fear and with instant co - operation - but always repeating, "If so you come in good will and right service, as true helpers of humanity". Now, this last caveat is not an idle one. We have said before that our Visitors are not all of one race or mind or ethical ideas - and now we have the Williamson - Bailey communicators saying the same thing: Beware those who come from Orion - the Orion systems are bent on destruction . . . . And again: There are bad men everywhere, all planets, all regions . . . .

We can see now why one editor-publisher recently said in effect: 'I cannot publish or sponsor the Williamson-Bailey book on account of its repercussions - nor will I publish material on the 'saucers' which does not fit in with my personal sources of illumination'. Repercussions is the right word. This book is a blow, a lusty hammer-blow at human complacency, smugness, stupidity, a battering down of towers of ivory, and of gates of ivory also, through which false dreams pass in and out. Well, if we indeed are facing an "inter-planetary debacle" (as Dr. Gerald Light expresses it), we can perhaps emulate the ostrich, live in Make-Believe House to the last swallow and puff; we can go panic-struck with a few hundred millions of our fellows; or we can try to get control of our own minds NOW - and from now on- in quietude - and to help the innumerable company of the help-less. I think most of our BSR Associates (for whom I am writing particularly) will feel that the last is the least of these three futilities.

Again and again these radio communicators give us phrases, facts, instructions with which the M.P. Controls would heartily concur, and indeed have concurred in the past under their own forms of expression. But since we have studied these Controls for nearly a decade past and our Associates have heard much of them, it seems proper to go a little further with the comparison. And on one vital point there seems to be a discrepancy or omission. In the whole of the Williamson-Bailey book there is no explicit reference to etheric races and regions, under that term; but for eight years the Controls have been asserting that nearly all of the phenomena of the Aeroforms was etheric in origin. Let us look at this a little more closely:

1. One of the most remarkable features of the Aeroforms has always been their mobility, their change of shape, color and size while in the air, their partial appearance and disappearance, (mat and demat), their varying density, ability to pass through each other, to enter the sea as easily as the air - and so on. It does not make rhyme or reason to suppose that these endless mutations are produced by some kind of operation on matter as we know it - on what we call solid and dense matter. But matter in its extremely dense and finely'divided' ether-form (higher frequencies of wave-motion) is instantly susceptible to the impact of all kinds of subtle forces, including that of mind-force, which is energic in character. And the great ships, even planet-size, are not hammered out in 'heavenly' yards and workshops by any means known to us, or at least usable by us. And there will be found, even in the W-B communications, many hints of the effective power of sound and thought over material things - the things so affected being worked upon in their etheric substratum first - so to speak. Moreover, the bodies of these Beings are as mutable as their craft - and this again is mind-operation upon matter in its etheric form, which underlies and brings forth forms which we can see and touch. It is mere childishness to imagine that - having seen and touched a Disc or one of the Space-Men himself - because it or he is tangible, material and solid by our standards and at that moment, he and his ship are always just so, in all the unfathomable regions of the cosmos. We shall never know these people as they 'really' are - for their shape and form are what they desire them to be, and for such time and place as they desire. These are conditions, powers and operations of etheric matter; but Space-People speak to us in these our kindergarten days in terms of machines and matter and forces intelligible to us.

Yet as an example of how close some of us have come, compare the "Memorandum Concerning Disc Propulsion", by Associate John A. Hilliard, in "The EtherShip Mystery", pgs. 17-19, with information scattered throughout "The Saucers Speak". The Control Natalli declared this account basically correct and that he was "fascinated by it". Our Regional Directors, Rolf Telano and E.S.S. have also elaborated this concept.

Several times lately our BSR publications have been misquoted (in public prints), as saying that the Space People are excarnate humans. They are 'human' in certain resemblances to us; they have not lived on our planet, but are born and 'die' in their own world. A few excarnate humans do at times enter the etheric regions and remain there indefinitely (e.g., the Rolf Telano communicators) - but are not 'native' to those planes. What is it to be 'human' or non-human? Let us define and confine, that our errors may be confined also.

Thus the whole present situation is one of doubtfully balanced elements. The opinions and 'hunches' of Assoc. E.S.S. are optimistic with reference to a world war, and Professor Luntz is in agreement with him. But the Williamson-Bailey communications (a little earlier in time) are extremely apprehensive. Also, according to press reports, 'bigger and better' bomb tests in the Pacific will be carried out in March or April - which does not suggest any newly acquired wisdom on the part of the Authorities.

Perhaps the best way to end this hybrid sort of book review, is to quote from the last paragraph of the book itself ("The Saucers Speak"): "The hands on the clock on the cover of the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists now stand at three minutes to midnight. When the Bulletin began, the cover pictured a clock with the hands at eight minutes to midnight. The hands are moving up. This reflects the feeling of many scientists that since 1945 the world has moved closer to the catastrophe of atomic warfare - that it has become increasingly urgent that we find a solution to the problem of the peaceful utilization of the work of science for the benefit of all mankind.

"The world is now close to the midnight hour".

"THE SAUCERS SPEAK", by George H. Williamson and Alfred C. Bailey. -New Age Publishing Co., 1542 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles 26, California. - 125 pages. Price - ~~(as formerly advertised) - $1.00.~~ 2.00

PYRAMIDS, etc. In CQC-B-4 (last issue), page 4, we quoted from THE PENDULUM (Markham House Press), correspondence from Le Lien - to the effect that if you make a pyramid in outline, so to speak, with square base and center pole, and with threads stretched from corners over the top of the pole, this pyramid without sides will function like a 'regular' pyramid. Whether Assoc. R.M.H. read this or not, is uncertain, but he writes:

"Have been having fair success keeping a razor blade sharp by merely willing itto stay sharp. Two weeks (14 shaves) is my record by this method to date - but I'm not very psychic and have a rather nerve-wracking job .. but it makes me wonder if the pyramids actually have any inherent powers, or if they merely serve to summon up the natural powers of the user (due to his faith in them). It might be informative if some experimenters would run a parallel test without the pyramid - attempting to use mental power alone."

Also, Assoc. E.S.S. writes briefly: "In re skeleton pyramid, I go along with the well-balanced theory (or knowledge) that will-powered thought forms can mould etheric matter (into various forms). Thus the skeletonized pyramid may merely serve as a prop to the mind, which does the rest with with super-physical principles." . . .

There is, of course, excellent evidence of a scientific nature, of the power of thought-energy to affect and rearrange the molecules of (say) a crystallizing solution of any one of numerous salts. The process was observed and repeatedly photographed under compound microscope by Dr. Charles Littlefield, and the data are accessible. This does not mean that anyone can get results any time or by exactly the same methods, but microphotographs cannot be successfully faked.

It is not necessary to assume that one effect or process excludes the other. A geometric body has its own peculiar force-field (so to call it), and 'mind-energy' may be able to enhance its effects, or nullify them, or reproduce them. Relevant information is obscure and confused, but it would probably be a mistake to fall into the "either -- or" way of thinking. (ml)

Meanwhile, Assoc. Neal Kearney (Maquoketa, Iowa) writes: "I have been experi - menting with the pyramid and razor blade since the 1st of November and the blade still shaves better than a new one - but not a surprise to me. Might advise the Rev. Cameron to try an infrared photo' plate under both the pyramid and cone..."

Assoc. Faith Gleason (Box 25, Belfast, N.Y.) writes: "I am continuing experi - ments with the pyramid and have concluded that flowers will keep fresh for two weeks. After that they soon dry but retain their original color - no fading, no wilting ... possibly this is one answer to the mystery of the Egyptian mummy..."

(Roses and 'mums' were experimented with.'They did not die in any normal way' says Mrs Gleason. ml)

Dr. H.E. Roy (Ben Lomond, Calif.) is interested in healing effects of pyramids and cones, using pyramids that will cover half of the body. "Interesting effects but not toward healing",he says."Under a pyramid of about 8" base a hand or head feels dool and restful. Razor edge is definitely preserved." A set of three cones gave definite healing effects. BSR experimenters would do well to write Dr. Roy for a copy of his 'round robin' letter of Dec. 28, '54.

Appended Oddity* A 'dead' car radio suddenly came to life and said: "I do not wish anyone to be afraid. I speak from outer space. If you do not stop warlike preparations you will be destroyed. " Soon after a newscaster on the same radio reported that the same message had been heard in Los Angeles and at Los Alamos. BSR Associates please report similar instances -- and read Williamson's "Saucers Speak." PRICE $2.00

"MORE TRUTH" FROM DR. HOLLOWAY:

Gilbert N. Holloway, D.D., Ph.D., is a nationally known lecturer and writer, now lecturing in New York City on philosophical and metaphysical subjects; he is also contributing a series of articles to Psychic Observer, now published in Chesterfield, Indiana. Dr. Holloway has long been an Associate of the BSR and is very favorably disposed toward the "4-D" or etheric explanation of the aeroforms (flying saucers). His article in the issue of March 25, '54 runs to six columns and covers:

Major Kehoe's latest book - Flying Saucers from Outer Space: 'Interesting and useful, astonishing data, but weak in all attempts at explanation.

Desmond Leslie and George Adamski: Flying Saucers Have Landed: Dr. Holloway notes the admirable scholarship of Mr. Leslie, and agrees with him that 'materialistic science' or 'technician scientists' cannot explain the phenomena; metaphysical and occult principles must be applied also. Yet Leslie's book is sure to be 'scorned and resisted by the metaphysical illiterates of our day.'

George Adamski, amateur astronomer and photographer who has taken many pictures of UFO (unknown flying objects), and who met and talked with the occupant of a 'saucer' (as described in the latter part of Leslie's book.

The Truman Bethurum case - repeated encounters of Mr. Bethurum with 'space people in the Utah desert: he entered a large Disc and conversed with the woman captain. Dr. Holloway points out that this story also has been carefully investigated and may be taken as factual and verified. ... And now, says Dr. Holloway, "we approach the heart of this mystery. A hypothesis not mentioned by Kehoe or seriously considered by Leslie, is that the aeroforms do not come from physical planets, but from the etheric worlds or regions."

"The best explanation of this is contained in The Ethership Mystery, by Meade Layne (Director of the Borderland Sciences Research, of San Diego, Calif.) - but who did not originate the theory, but received it through the mediumship of a trance sensitive, Mark Probert of San Diego. Few persons may believe that the 'saucers' relate in any way to mediumship and psychic science - yet the one good explanation of them comes from Higher Intelligneces through a tested and recognized trance medium. . . . This is the one answer that covers all the phenomena. Lights and craft that appear and disappear become understandable when one realizes that these craft are inter - dimensional, and that they materialize and dematerialize at will. They pass freely from one space-time frame of reference to another ...

"An etheric person can raise the vibrations of his material envelope until he is no longer visible on the earth plane. He is still functioning in a material body, but this material is outside our spectrum of tangibility.

"Just as there are sounds we cannot hear, and colors we cannot see, so there is matter we can neither hear, see, nor touch... ! (Intangibility can result from very high density - the ethers are enormously dense, not rarefied. ML). 'These craft can be thought of as emergents, from one frame of space-time to another. In this sense they do not 'cross space' or consume time, but emerge with the speed of thought... Our human ideas of space and time derive from our three-dimensional world experience. The moment one transcends this, all such relationships enter an entirely different perspective..."

Dr. Holloway's long article concludes with paragraphs on Disc Warnings, Earthquake Dangers (cosmic changes etc.), Unusual Disc Items, Missing Persons, and the comment that this is an event of "stupendous importance. Nothing like this visitation en masse has occurred in our recorded history..."

Because we believe, as Dr. Holloway does, that these facts are of almost incredible importance - and that the basic explanation advanced by the Mark Probert Controls is sound and true and has stood the tests of eight years of study, we applaud him for performing a public service by writing this article. Our Associates can obtain copies from PSYCHIC OBSERVER, Chesterfield, Ind., March 25th issue., .20 per copy.

(From Proceedings of the College of Universal Wisdom: I-9, Feb 15, '54)

"The fact that our solar system is being brought into an unbalanced state by the explosion of nuclear devices, is the reason for the numerous appearances of of the space-craft in our atmosphere. They are not just people from other planets; they are agents of God. *

"The planned tests in the Pacific, where attempts to fuse both tritium and deuterium are in the making, is the maximum demonstration of ignorance. This super-test will cause tidal waves and earthquakes on a greater scale than before. The maximum effect will be evidenced on the earth opposite to the area of the tests. Storms of unprecedented fury will follow the blasts, but not immediately, all over the earth.."

*(Note: the term "God" equates with "Nature" as here used. That our BSR publications avoid the word God comes from the fact that it has no fixed content, but does have all kinds of religionistic and theological connotations. The question: do you believe in God? actually means: do you believe in my God? If one must "measure with words the Immeasurable" perhaps the occult expression "God is Pressure" will give high rewards in meditation - though very little to intellectual analysis).

(The PROCEEDINGS quoted above is an 8-page folder, distributed free; back issues for a freewill offering. Semi-monthly. Address the College at Box 419, Yucca Valley, Calif. (Van Tassel Ranch). Non-sectarian and non-profit, and based on communications received from the 'Space People'. The BSR Director recommends that you at least send for the February 15th issue - or better, send a dollar for this and several back issues).

BSR Publications have always avoided the practise of saying "mention us when you write" to such-and-such addresses - since this is usually a profit-making collaboration of some sort between publishers. But so far as I know, none of the non-fiction publications in the general borderland field are profit-makers (I should add, those that are factual and do not sensationalize their stuff) -- and it will help the BSRA if you refer to us as having recommended - etc. ML).

The monumental work entitled PSYCHICAL PHYSICS, by Professor S.W. TROMP (Fouad I University, Cairo, Egypt), can be obtained from the ELSEVIER PUB. CO.Inc., 215-4th Ave., N.Y. - 533 pgs., technical and fully documented - but much of it entirely intelligible to the layman. To anyone who thinks dowsing, radiesthesia, and 'kindred divining phenomena' are scanty and outlaw subjects on the lunatic fring of 'true science' this book will be a much-needed education. Price (alack!) is $8.00 - but So What?

NOTES ON FASTING: -From correspondence of Assoc. Edna Clark, 951 - 14th St., San Francisco 14, Calif. -- "When I was about 15 years of age, I began to gain weight rapidly, being about 20 pounds overweight at that age. Fifty-five years ago there was no material on reducing, but in my simple mind was the idea that food made me fat. So I started lopping off a meal; then regularly I ate only an apple at lunch when going to school, for years. Gradually I increased the times of doing without food until about the age of 35 years, when I went on a complete fast - that is, without any food. I drank water, only.

I fasted for 24 days that time. Here is the strange thing I noted: that when I reached the weight of 112, I STOPPED LOSING WEIGHT. This occurred in every long fast I ever took. I am 5 feet, 4½ inches, medium to slender bones, shoe AA, glove 6¼. So you see at 112 I was only at the weight of many people of that size.

During every long fast I worked at hard work at least part of the day, resting for two hours morning and afternoon. I had a very slight headache, due I think to not drinking enough water to wash out the poison of decaying cells. When I say I worked hard, I mean, hard.

The first fast was taken when I lived on a farm, raising chickens, cooking on a coal and wood stove (that was 35 years ago) and doing all the work a farm woman did in those days -- baking bread, working in the garden (it was summer), etc.

Since then, I have fasted long fasts several times, the last time about four years ago. I regularly every week, fast for one and three-fourths days.

The Bible says 'This comes not out except by fasting and prayer.' Meaning devils, of course. Well, many things besides devils come out. Colds (no severe cold in 26 years), and all manner of diseases. I am coming to feel that if we cut our eating two-thirds, at least, we would have no trouble living way past the hundred mark. My grandmother lived to be 89, and the last four years ate nothing much except bread and milk. Some of her hair came in black before she died.

When one goes without food regularly, the appetite decreases for the meals one does take. IT SEEMS TO BE LARGELY IN THE MIND.

The day before I start fasting, I charge myself over several times that I won't be hungry tomorrow and will have no desire for food. That is negative so I visualize (how do you visualize a mental state?) the feeling of being satisfied and happy never wavering in my determination to do without food for the set time, strong and clear in mind. I keep busy, avoid thinking of food.

I am not surprised at anything these days, so maybe the abundance of food in America is not the blessing it is said to be. Fasting helps the old-age loss of memory, also.

I feel, for myself at least, that this agitation about eating protein is overdone. I have gone on a fruit diet (not bananas) for a month with protein only two or three times a week, and I FEEL MUCH BETTER AND PEPPIER THAN WHEN I EAT REGULAR MEALS.

For women who cook, at least, going without food would be ideal; I have so much time when fasting that I do two or three times as much work as when cooking and eating. -- I am inclined to believe these no-fooders. I feel that the agreement in the mind to go without food makes the difference between voluntary fasting and starving -- at least to a degree. The terror some people have at going without food would make anyone ill.

Assoc. Julius Becker (Box 4032 -San Francisco, Calif.) sends us the following. It appeared in February issue of "Personology Journal"- which quoted it from "a recent chiropractic magazine". -- Further information solicited.

SPECIAL FILM PHOTOGRAPHS ELECTRONIC VIBRATIONS FROM BODY. -- In a recent magazine article, Dr. Cecil Bowlby of Los Angeles, reported that: 'Emanating from your body and mine are four known fields of vibrations.' Dr. Bowlby went on to say that these four distinct fields have been photographed, and they are in various colors invisible to the naked eye. The first field radiates from the body approximately one-half inch, and appears similar to an egg shell around the body.

The second field of vibrations radiates approximately six inches from the body, and looks like a half-moon circulating the body according to black and white photography. Using color film, it presents a million color combinations.

The third field of vibrations is quite interesting under the photographic eye. They radiate a good three feet from the body and appear similar to sparks flying in all directions from an emery wheel.

The fourth field of vibration brings us in touch with an unknown world. The high powered eye of the camera cannot follow the field beyond nine feet. It leaves the body like clouds of smoke from the bowels of a battleship. The fear in the fourth field of vibration tells a dog to bite you. The love for animals in the fourth field of vibration tells the most dangerous dog to come forward and be petted, Dr. Bowlby postulates.

The mistrust and hate for an individual is felt at a distance the minute you enter the room - the love and comforting feeling for an individual in the fourth field of vibration is immediately felt at a great distance - they automatically tune in with each other, Dr. Bowlby believes.

Working with an outstanding camera and film-producing individual in Hollywood, photographing the various fields of vibrations radiating from the human body, and knowing for the first time that these four distinct fields are in various colors, developed another human interest story regarding the distance beyond the camera limit the fourth field of vibration travels. The sound stage was closed and a bell rigged up so that it would ring as various individuals entered the sound stage.

At a wide varying distance no two were alike, the fourth field of vibration would ring the bell. A big husky football player, aged 23, in perfect physical health, could not ring the bell beyond a distance of 18 feet.

A little skinny, emaciated, old body, aged 83, caught in a draft she would blow away -- would ring the bell the minute she opened the door to enter the stage with all outside disturbance present, a distance of 85 feet..... Dr. Bowlby asks, how far does your fourth field of vibration travel? Does it carry confidence, peace, love, beauty and freedom, or does it carry fear, hate, distrust and jealous vibrations?

Progress is Progressin': On Thursday, March 11, the commentator Frank Edwards stated, that 24 million dollars of the Air Force budget had been earmarked for "secret projects" ... and that two scientists of distinction were now heading a project for the study of two objects revolving as satellites of the earth. . . Same date: British Govt. announces germ warfare tests off the coast of Scotland will be transferred to the Bahamas 'this year'. The aim will be 'to see over what area of country a single germ bomb can distribute a lethal load and then find some means of neutralizing it. The bombs will contain radioactive substances and material similar in weight to the poisons that normally would be carried in germ warfare.' (S.D.Union 3-12-54)

STRAWS IN THE WIND DEPT. (Suggestion for that heading comes from Assoc. Rolf Telano, who also contributes a few 'straws' for a starter - which turn out to be lemmings

"The lemming is a small Arctic rodent (writes R.T.) which has the peculiar habit of committing suicide. For three years they breed and increase rapidly; then on the 4th year they migrate en masse to the nearest ocean, and swim out to sea until they sink from exhaustion and are drowned. Observers can time this by the migration of the arctic snow owl, which lives mainly on the lemmings. During the three years food is plentiful and the owls stay in the north, but on suicide year they migrate south in search of other food. This has been going on regularly as far back as records have been kept.

"This winter, 1953-54, was the regular suicide year, but the snow owls didn't migrate - and observers found that the lemmings had not conformed to custom. They were still all there and their time table had been upset, for some unknown reason".

"Another couple of points: if there has been any basic change in the influences reaching earth, and it seems that there has been , it is likely to result in many errors in astrology. The planetary radiations would also be altered, and would have a different influence than before. The same might apply to the predictions of many psychic 'controls'. Many of them do not actually remember the future, but base their remarks and predictions upon forthcoming planetary influences. Usually their awareness of these is instinctive rather than conscious, and they may not realize the fact.

THE ROUNDHOUSE is also a very successful collector of 'straws'- which some day someone may be able to convert into bricks. There are comments on The Diamond Lens, on the vagaries of the Air Force (re UFO), on lights over Muscatine, Iowa - on Something that landed on the German-Polish border recently, on the giant Wheel of white rock in the Big Horn mountains (Wyo.), on seven cats and a dog, the cobalt bomb, Something (again) over Quantico and/or Camp Barrett, on Whistlers in the ionosphere, about a denouement that may not come off - and a subscription of .10 a copy or $1.00 a year, made necessary by increasing circulation. A good and very interesting selection of items, and recommended by BSR. Address Neal Kearney, Editor, RR 3, Maquoketa, Iowa - Pearl Stoll, Sec., 501 S. 5th St. Maquoketa, Iowa.

ASSOC. C.H. BETZ sends us a copy of "PROCEEDINGS of the Scientific and Technical Congress of Radionics and Radiesthesia": London, May 16-18, 1950. Pub. by Markham House Press, Ltd. 31 King's Road, Lon. S.W. 3. Price 7/6 (about $1.25). A remarkable and highly important publication, packed full of data, partly very technical but much of it understandable to the layman. Incidentally, those who think the "Ether of Space" is a discarded and outmoded concept may reflect on Dr. Westlake's remark (p. 23) that in the light of Brunler's and Reich's work "the ether of classical physics may well be demonstrated as a physical reality" - and the point recurs under different forms of expression throughout the book. Radionic therapy, effects of mummifiers, distance treatment by blood samples, the colorscope - literally hundreds of subjects belonging to the healing arts and general science of the future are given documented discussion. Our numerous BSR Associates who are interested in the curious effects cones and pyramids will find here a fine accumulation of relevant and important data.

FROM: THE LITTLE LISTENING POST -- (Feb. 22, 1954).

From Wash. STAR, Feb. 15: "The High Command's atom-age 'underground Pentagon' built inside a mountain 65 miles from here, is ready.... started three years ago to provide an alternate command post and communications center if atomic attack should threaten or destroy the Pentagon is 100 per cent completed. The cost of blasting out the cavern under Raven Rock Mountain, building housing for personnel above ground and installing communications equipment presumably reached at least the original estimate of 35 million.... Has five microwave radio stations in or near Wash."

"The American people are being fooled if they believe bedtime stories that our air defenses can stop Soviet bombers, according to Air Force Magazine. The semi-official publication of the Air Force association, representing former and present Air Force personnel, decried what it said were exaggerated claims about our radar and air defense system..... "It is morally wrong," the magazine said, "to tell America that she can be defended today, when tomorrow millions of Americans may perish in an atomic holocaust. This breed of irresponsible reporting must be countered head-on and debunked. The public must not be lulled into a sense of false security by talk about fantastic new weapons which are neither fantastic nor available yet for combat.," etc.

Current "Collier's" magazine.- In it General Mark Clark advocates a "give-'em-the-works" program -- referring to our advanced weapons. (Watch Collier's mag.)

Washington Daily News, Feb. 13. - "Commercial airline pilots report between 5 and 10 Saucer sightings each night, it was learned today. Representatives of major airlines will meet Wednesday in Los Angeles with Military Air Transport Services (MATS) intelligence officers to discuss speeding up Saucer reporting procedures. The idea will be to get the reports in the quickest way possible so that the Air Force can send fast jet fighters to investigate. Heretofore, pilots have landed and then reported to MATS through their companies. By that time the trail usually is cold. Now, pilots are instructed to flash reports direct from the air to MATS intelligence here in Wash. or to the nearest Air Force base, etc. (NOTE-) AIRLINE PILOTS ARE ASKED NOT TO DISCUSS THEIR SIGHTINGS publicly, ot give them to newspapers..." Navy Capt. Bernard Baruch, Jr., MATS intelligence officer is in charge of the project. (Son of the noted statesman). "Until recently the largest number of sightings were from the S.W. Pacific." Around Australia, where British maintain a guided missile range. Recently, however. there has been an increase in Saucer sightings in the North Pacific. These sightings are associated with the establishment of an Air Force base (B-36) at Thule, Greenland, etc. (T wo sample sightings - very interesting ones - were given as samples.)

THE SAUCERS SPEAK, by Dr. George H. Williamson & Alfred C. Bailey. New Age Pub. Co., 1542 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles 26, Calif. 127 pgs. PRICE $2.00. (There is no question in my own mind about the sincerity and mental competence of the authors of this book, and the facts presented by them are most extraordinary. Commendably, they do not attempt to build any elaborate teachings on these facts and their advice in the Prologue is excellent: "Read the following account with an open mind. Think about it seriously for it is a message in a time of world unrest." (ML)
